

Cost and Fee Information

08/20/2021

In this document we break down the costs and fees for your investment in detail. These are divided into two categories: Service Fees and Fund Expenses.

Costs and fees for your investment

Below is an estimate of the costs and fees for your investment. Once a year you will receive a statement of your actual costs and fees.

To help you clearly understand your costs and fees, we have outlined them as follows:

- Total costs and fees (shown as euro amount and percentage)
- Service Fee: This is the fee you pay to Vanguard for the investment service and related expenses related portfolio services and services. These include, for example, administration Your portfolio, the rebalancing, the technical platform, transaction costs within the portfolios and customer service. Vanguard also uses this fee to pay partners and Service providers involved in the delivery of the Vanguard Invest investment service. the Service fee is calculated daily for the current deposit value and every three months for the each past quarter collected separately by SEPA direct debit mandate.
- Fund costs: costs that a fund manager automatically takes from the fund.

The costs have been estimated on an ex-ante basis. For this purpose, the created in the past Costs used as a proxy for the expected costs. The actual costs incurred may deviate from this.

Fund costs in detail

One-time fees: Vanguard's index funds don't have any one-time fees like front-end loads when buying.

Ongoing Fund Fees: These are fees you pay to Vanguard for administering the relevant fund. The fees are taken from your fund shares on an ongoing basis, usually daily. These fees are therefore settled within the fund and not billed to you separately.

In-Fund Trading Fees: These fees are not paid to Vanguard but are accrued within the funds to buy and sell the underlying investments. They are reflected in the performance of the fund and will not be charged to you separately. These will too called portfolio transaction costs.

Extraordinary costs: There are no additional costs that are not mentioned.
